Mailbox Audit — Old Ads, Postal Service Mail, Subscriptions, and Purchases

Status: STILL PARTIAL — the second run was also stopped by a Gmail rate limit, and three further sittings (bite 1, its rerun the same morning, and this scheduled bite 1 run) were each stopped at their first read the same way. This is not a finished audit.

- Dates of the runs: Saturday, October 31, 2026 (first run) and Sunday, November 1, 2026 (second run), Arizona time. A third sitting (bite 1 of the three-months-at-a-time plan Clay set on November 1, 2026) was attempted later on Sunday, November 1, 2026, a fourth sitting (the rerun of bite 1 as its own standalone sitting, on Clay's direct order) was attempted later the same morning, and a fifth sitting (this scheduled bite 1 run, on Clay's order to run the bite when it can run) was attempted still later the same morning, at about 8:05 AM Arizona time.
- Mailbox checked: Clay's Gmail, the only linked account, claypnw@gmail.com.
- This was a read-only audit. Nothing was deleted, trashed, archived, labeled, unsubscribed, drafted, or sent in either run.
- Cut-off date: mail dated before October 31, 2025 — that is, mail over a year old on the day of the first run.
- Counts in this report count conversations the way Gmail does: one conversation is one distinct thread. Message counts are also given, because one conversation can hold more than one message.
- Why the second run stopped: at 2:22 AM on November 1, 2026, while the November 2022 slice of old Promotions mail was being read, Gmail returned a terminal rate limit for this attempt (connector rate limited, terminal for this attempt, 5,990 units used, 10 left). The task rules say: write what was finished into the report, report the partial progress plainly, and stop — do not retry. No Gmail work was done after that point.
- What happened in the third sitting (bite 1, November 1, 2026): the sitting was to group three months of old Promotions mail — November 2022, December 2022, and January 2023 — in the bites of three months Clay directed that morning, each bite named and given his go before it runs. Its first read, for November 2022, was refused at once by a terminal Gmail rate limit for this attempt, before any message of the three months was read: the connector reported 3,540 units already used in the shared window by the day's earlier sittings, 2,460 units left, and the refused read asked for 5 units. Under the stop rule the sitting ended there, with no retry. This sitting changed nothing in the grouping below:

still 4,126 messages grouped, covering January 2014 through October 2022, and the three bite months stand not read, exactly as before. The bite's own record stands in the goal's hidden working files as `bite-2022-11_to_2023-01.md`.

- What happened in the fourth sitting (the bite 1 rerun, November 1, 2026): on Clay's direct order, bite 1 ran again the same morning as its own standalone sitting — no other Gmail reading was done in that sitting, before, during, or after. Its first read, for November 2022, was refused at once by a terminal Gmail rate limit for this attempt, before any message of the three months was read: the connector reported 5,985 units used, 15 units left, and the refused read asked for 20 units. The sitting itself completed 0 reads — its only call was the one refused — so the 5,985 units were already standing against the window when the sitting began. 5,985 is also the exact used figure the first run's stop reported on October 31, 2026. What that figure counts, and who spent it, is NOT CHECKED: the connector prints no per-read split. Under the stop rule the sitting ended there, with no retry. This sitting also changed nothing in the grouping below: still 4,126 messages grouped, covering January 2014 through October 2022, and the three bite months stand not read, exactly as before.
- What happened in the fifth sitting (this scheduled bite 1 run, November 1, 2026, about 8:05 AM Arizona time): bite 1 ran again as its own sitting, by the same road (sweep_bite1.py, +triage month slices, headers only), with no other Gmail reading in this sitting before, during, or after. Its first read, for November 2022, was refused at once by a terminal Gmail rate limit for this attempt, before any message of the three months was read: the connector reported 5,985 units used, 15 units left, and the refused read asked for 20 units, with retry after 60 seconds. The sitting itself completed 0 reads — its only call was the one refused — so the 5,985 units were already standing against the window when the sitting began. That is the same figure pair as the fourth sitting and as the first run's stop on October 31, 2026. What that figure counts, and who spent it, is NOT CHECKED: the connector prints no per-read split. Under the stop rule the sitting ended there, with no retry. This sitting also changed nothing in the grouping below: still 4,126 messages grouped, covering January 2014 through October 2022, and the three bite months stand not read, exactly as before.
- What that means: the headline counts in Part 1 and Part 1B were fully counted in the first run and are stated as checked. The sender grouping in Part 1 was advanced a long way in the second run and is reported below for exactly the messages that were read — no more. Part 1B's sender breakdown, the Part 1C sender safety check, Part 2, and Part 3 were not reached in either run and are each marked NOT CHECKED where they stand. Nothing below dresses a partial result as a finished one.

Part 1 — Old advertisements (Promotions)

Checked count (first run): 13,730 messages in 13,678 conversations, dated before October 31, 2025, in the Promotions category.

- How it was counted: every matching message was listed page by page until the pages ran out, and the conversations were counted from the distinct thread IDs in that full list. That list is kept in the goal's hidden working files as `promo_old_ids.json`.
- For scale: the Promotions category holds 15,392 messages in 15,337 conversations in total, for all dates, read from the Promotions label counter on the same morning.
- So about 89 out of every 100 Promotions messages in the mailbox are over a year old.

Safety rule for these counts (Clay, October 31, 2026). The advertisement counts in this report count only messages that are themselves advertisements — each counted message sits in the Promotions category and is counted for what that message itself is. The companies that send advertisements also send mail Clay must keep — purchase records, recall notices for a vehicle he owns, warranty information, and account notices — and a sender is never treated as advertisements-only by name. Nothing in this report stands cleared for deletion by sender. Any later deletion (only ever on Clay's word, and never part of this audit) must be judged message by message, and any message carrying purchase, recall, warranty, or account information is kept.

Old Promotions mail by year — each line says what the line counts (first run, checked)

- Before January 1, 2020: 4,339 messages in 4,316 conversations. This is the oldest block and spans all years before 2020 in one line, because it was counted as one block.
- Calendar year 2020: 615 messages in 613 conversations.
- Calendar year 2021: 418 messages in 418 conversations.
- Calendar year 2022: 2,749 messages in 2,735 conversations.
- Calendar year 2023: 3,529 messages in 3,521 conversations.
- Calendar year 2024: 1,350 messages in 1,348 conversations.
- January 1 to October 30, 2025: 738 messages in 735 conversations.
- Note on the year lines: the year lines add to 13,738 messages, 8 more than the direct total of 13,730. The year lines were counted with "after" date edges, which handle the edge days slightly differently. The direct total — 13,730 messages in 13,678 conversations — is the number to use.

Sender grouping for old advertisements — PARTIAL (second run)

- What was done: in the second run, old Promotions mail was read in month slices, headers only (sender, subject, date), reusing the first run's saved message list — the big listing was not re-run. 4,126 messages were read and grouped, from 577 different sender addresses. Every message read belongs to the saved 13,730-message set (the read-back check found 0 messages outside it), and 9,604 of the 13,730 messages were not reached.

- Months covered: January 2014 through October 2022. Four months inside that span — February, March, April, and May 2017 — returned a transport error (the request could not be sent) and hold no read messages. Months from November 2022 through October 2025 were not reached, because Gmail stopped the run at the November 2022 slice.
- A shortfall inside the covered months: the reading helper returned every message for calendar year 2020 (615 read, 615 counted in the first run) and nearly every message for 2021 (416 read, 418 counted), but only part of the mail in most other slices — 2,596 read for the years before 2020 against 4,339 counted, and 499 read for January–October 2022 against 2,749 counted for the whole of 2022. The helper appears to return only part of each slice in those years; the exact rule it used was NOT CHECKED, because the rate limit ended the run before the rule could be tested. The sender counts below are therefore counts of the messages that were read, not counts of all old advertisements. A sender's true count in the full 13,730 can only be the same or higher than the count printed here.
- Top 5 senders among the 4,126 messages that were read (not the top 5 of the full 13,730 — those are NOT CHECKED):
- StumbleUpon, no-reply@mail.stumblemail.net — 352 messages read, oldest July 24, 2014, newest June 6, 2018.
- Amazon.com Deal of the Day, delivers@amazon.com — 163 messages read, oldest January 6, 2014, newest October 16, 2022.
- Amazon.com, store_news@amazon.com — 143 messages read, oldest January 10, 2014, newest March 19, 2022.
- Woot, no-reply@woot.com — 129 messages read, oldest January 3, 2014, newest July 11, 2017.
- Netflix, info@mailer.netflix.com — 79 messages read, oldest September 17, 2014, newest October 6, 2022.

Every sender found in the messages that were read — 577 senders, biggest first

Each line gives the sender name and address, the number of messages read from that sender, and the oldest and newest dates among those read messages. Counts cover only the messages read in the second run, as stated above.

One full month read in the first run — January 2025 (sample)

- One month slice, January 2025, was read in the first run. It holds 38 Promotions messages, dated January 5 to January 26, 2025. Caution added by the second run: because the reading helper was found in the second run to return only part of some slices, this January 2025 sample may also be part of that month rather than all of it; that was NOT CHECKED. The senders in that month, biggest first, merged by address where one sender used two display names, are:
- SOLE Fitness, news@soletreadmills.com — 8 messages in that month, oldest January 14, 2025, newest January 26, 2025. The messages arrived under two display names, "SOLE Fitness" and "Alex @ SOLE Fitness", from the same address.
- Visionworks, visionworks@c.visionworks.com — 5 messages in that month, oldest January 6, 2025, newest January 18, 2025.
- eero, support@email.eero.com — 3 messages in that month, oldest January 5, 2025, newest January 19, 2025.
- Amazon.com, store-news@amazon.com — 3 messages in that month, oldest January 5, 2025, newest January 15, 2025. These are store news and offer mail, not order mail.
- xTool, no-reply@edm.xtool.com — 2 messages in that month, oldest January 22, 2025, newest January 24, 2025.
- Verizon Wireless, no-reply@customer.verizon.com — 2 messages in that month, oldest January 19, 2025, newest January 22, 2025.
- John & Mercedes Condon, rvoddcouple@a.kajabimail.net — 2 messages in that month, oldest January 15, 2025, newest January 22, 2025.
- Harbor Freight, hft@em.harborfreight.com — 2 messages in that month, oldest January 10, 2025, newest January 15, 2025.
- APS, donotreply@info.aps.com — 1 message in that month, on January 24, 2025.

- DrJockers.com, info@drjockers.com — 1 message in that month, on January 23, 2025.
- Cigars International, feedback@eml.cigarsinternational.com — 1 message in that month, on January 21, 2025.
- SiriusXM, no-reply@e.siriusxm.com — 1 message in that month, on January 17, 2025.
- Robert from Keto Brick, info@ketobrick.com — 1 message in that month, on January 16, 2025.
- Blue Cross Blue Shield Federal Employee Program, BCBS.FEP@email.azblue.com — 1 message in that month, on January 13, 2025.
- Filmora, noreply@best.wondershare.com — 1 message in that month, on January 10, 2025.
- Freedom Mortgage Corporation, marketing.department@email-freedommortgage.com — 1 message in that month, on January 9, 2025.
- Home Depot Pro Xtra, homedepotpro@mg.homedepot.com — 1 message in that month, on January 9, 2025.
- MyNISSAN Rewards, nissan@mnr.nissanusa.com — 1 message in that month, on January 8, 2025.
- Neoplants, friends@hello.neoplants.co — 1 message in that month, on January 6, 2025.
- This sample is one month only. It does not show the biggest senders in the full 13,730 messages, and it must not be read that way.
- The five newest old advertisements, all from October 30, 2025, the day before the cut-off, were also read in the first run:
- Visionworks, visionworks@c.visionworks.com — "VSP Members can get extra to spend on select frames," October 30, 2025.
- Emma @ Arizona Family Destinations, emma@familydestinationsguide.com — two messages on October 30, 2025, one about a quiet Arizona town and one about seafood restaurants in Arizona.
- Freedom Mortgage Corporation, marketing.department@email-freedommortgage.com — "Breaking News—Federal Reserve cuts interest rates again!," October 30, 2025.
- Reddit, noreply@redditmail.com — "Are you a business on Reddit? Learn what Reddit Pro can do for you," October 30, 2025.

Part 1B — Postal Service mail (United States Postal Service)

Checked count (first run): 1,370 messages in 1,341 conversations from usps.com addresses, dated before October 31, 2025.

- This group stands on its own, apart from the advertisements, as Clay asked on October 30, 2026: he will not look at Postal Service mail a year old or older.

- How it was counted: every message from a usps.com address dated before the cut-off was listed page by page until the pages ran out, and conversations were counted from the distinct thread IDs.
- For scale: mail from usps.com addresses for all dates totals 1,683 messages in 1,654 conversations, so most Postal Service mail in this mailbox is over a year old.
- Two wider word searches were also counted, and they overlap the count above, so they must not be added to it:
- Mail carrying the words "Informed Delivery," dated before the cut-off: 1,380 messages in 1,349 conversations. This is 10 messages more than the usps.com count, so a small number of Informed Delivery messages come from an address outside usps.com, or quote the words.
- Mail carrying the word "USPS" anywhere, dated before the cut-off: 1,490 messages in 1,443 conversations. This wider count also catches mail from other senders that only mention the Postal Service, such as store shipping notices, so it is not all mail from the Postal Service.
- Sender name and address breakdown for this group, with oldest and newest dates per sender: NOT CHECKED. The counts above were finished in the first run, and the sender-detail read was not reached in either run — in the second run the Gmail budget ended during Part 1, before Part 1B could start. The main sender is expected to be the Informed Delivery daily mail from a usps.com address, but the exact sender lines and dates are not stated here because they were not read — that is a guess about the shape of the group, named as a guess, not a checked fact.

Part 1C — Sender safety check — NOT CHECKED

- The safety check — for every sender in the Part 1 grouping and every sender in Part 1B, searching that sender's mail outside the Promotions category for mail to keep (order confirmations, receipts, shipping notices, recall notices, warranty mail, account or safety notices) — was NOT run in either run. In the second run the Gmail budget ended during Part 1, before this check could start.
- Senders marked "ALSO SENDS MAIL TO KEEP": 0 — and that zero means the check did not run, not that no sender qualifies. No sender in this report stands cleared as advertisements-only, and no sender stands marked either way.
- The safety rule itself is stated in full in the Part 1 section above, as required: the advertisement counts count only messages that are themselves advertisements; nothing stands cleared for deletion by sender; any later deletion (only ever on Clay's word, never part of this audit) must be judged message by message; and any message carrying purchase, recall, warranty, or account information is kept.

Part 2 — Subscriptions and recurring charges — NOT CHECKED

- No subscription list was built. The searches for receipts, invoices, renewal notices, and subscription and payment wording were not run in either run — in the second run the Gmail budget ended during Part 1, before Part 2 could start.
- Number of subscriptions found: NOT CHECKED — not zero. Zero would mean the search ran and found none, and the search did not run.
- "Worth a look" flags: NOT CHECKED. No charge can be flagged, and no charge can be cleared, from these runs.

Part 3 — Purchases — NOT CHECKED

- No purchase totals were built. The searches for order confirmations and shipping notices from Amazon, Woot, Walmart, eBay, and other stores were not run in either run — in the second run the Gmail budget ended during Part 1, before Part 3 could start.
- Totals spent by store and by year: NOT CHECKED — not zero.
- Order counts by store: NOT CHECKED — not zero.
- The 10 biggest single purchases: NOT CHECKED. None are listed, because none were read.

What was done, what was not done, and what a later run needs to do

- Done and checked (first run): the full count of old Promotions mail (13,730 messages, 13,678 conversations), the year-by-year counts, one month of sender detail (January 2025, 38 messages), the five newest old advertisements, and the Postal Service counts (1,370 messages, 1,341 conversations from usps.com before the cut-off).
- Done and checked (second run): 4,126 old Promotions messages read in month slices (January 2014–October 2022, February–May 2017 missing on transport errors) and grouped under 577 sender addresses, biggest first, with oldest and newest dates per sender. Read-back check: every message read stands inside the first run's saved 13,730-message list (0 outside it).
- Third sitting (bite 1, November 1, 2026): stopped at its first read by a terminal Gmail rate limit, as stated at the top of this report. 0 messages of November 2022, December 2022, and January 2023 were read or grouped, and no number in this report changed.
- Fourth sitting (the bite 1 rerun, November 1, 2026): stopped at its first read by a terminal Gmail rate limit (5,985 units used, 15 left), as stated at the top of this report. The sitting ran standalone, on Clay's direct order, with no other Gmail reading in it. 0 messages of November 2022, December 2022, and January 2023 were read or grouped, and no number in this report changed.

- Fifth sitting (this scheduled bite 1 run, November 1, 2026, about 8:05 AM Arizona time): stopped at its first read by a terminal Gmail rate limit (5,985 units used, 15 left, requested 20 units, retry after 60 seconds), as stated at the top of this report. The sitting did no other Gmail reading. 0 messages of November 2022, December 2022, and January 2023 were read or grouped, and no number in this report changed.
- Not done: the sender grouping for the 9,604 old Promotions messages that were not read (November 2022–October 2025, February–May 2017, and the unreturned part of the covered slices); the sender breakdown for Postal Service mail; the whole Part 1C sender safety check; the whole subscription and recurring-charge list; and the whole purchase summary.
- Why: Gmail returned a terminal rate limit for this attempt (5,990 units used, 10 left), and the task rules and the Gmail connector rules both say the same thing — report the partial progress and stop, do not retry in this attempt.
- What a later run needs to do, in order: (1) first test the reading helper on one month whose full count is known, to learn whether it returns all of a slice or only part of it, before trusting it for bulk reads — the 2020 match and the 2022 shortfall in this report are the evidence that the test is needed; (2) read the remaining old Promotions months (November 2022–October 2025 and February–May 2017) in month-or-smaller slices, headers only, and merge them into the grouping above; (3) read the Postal Service sender breakdown; (4) run the Part 1C safety check for every grouped sender; (5) run the Part 2 subscription searches and the Part 3 purchase searches. A later run cannot be counted on to start with a fresh Gmail budget: the third sitting found 3,540 units already used in its window before its first read, and the fourth and fifth — standalone sittings with no other Gmail reading in them — each found 5,985 already used, and who spent them is NOT CHECKED. This run's slices and grouping are saved in the goal's hidden working files so the later run continues from them instead of starting over.
- Nothing in either run changed the mailbox in any way. This report is a list for Clay to review first, as planned. No mail was deleted, trashed, archived, labeled, or unsubscribed.
